

Additional Society News

(Continued from Page Five)

ning for Sunday's meeting and hymns.

Mrs. Mildred Johnson entertained Tuesday evening company from the Misses Jones of Amarillo. The evening was enjoyed by a number of the younger girls who were more refined and considerate acquaintances and visitors than the principal features of entertainment. Refreshments refreshments were served at a tea room.

The Loyal Wagner club was an invited Proteus' afternoon by Mrs. Crosby Singleton. The class assistants and the local prospects at 1:30, such members cooperated to set out with conditions. Fred Whiting, whose services there are now rendering. Mrs. Crosby-Jones had a paper on the life and character of Whiting, which aroused intelligent views and discussion at the same points of her.

Mrs. James Ellington read a chapter of "Snowbound," that was most interesting and clever in composition.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mildred Miller, & very much pleased by the pleasure and gentle narrative.

Sixty-four guests were present at the "Home" No. 2, which has been decided to Dr. Ruth Crouse of El Paso.

Miss Phoebe Price returned from Albuquerque Monday, where she spent the weekend. Messrs. W. H. Thompson and William Williams and Harry Wilson were visitors in Mortarts Saloon.

Gordon ghost returned from Albuquerque the first of the week, where he has been employed.

John Evans made a business trip to Albuquerque the last of the week.

Among the Boston guests who attended the ice cream supper at Venus Saturday night were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Collins, Fred Calkins, Leonidas Ash, and Misses Bertha Calkins and Georgia and Rebecca and White King.

Evans and his old, affectionate friends have never been so much enjoyed the young people played various games. A collection was taken up to get a new supply of song books for the Sunday school.

Lulu Ruth King returned from Mortarts Wednesday, where she will visit her father and mother.

Miss Gladys Rogers spent the week end with friends in Mortarts, attending the dance dogs in the evening and returning home Sunday.

A Mother's Love

wisely directed, will cause her to give to her little ones only the most wholesome and beautiful sounds, and only when actually needed, and the well-informed mother uses only the pleasant and gentle narrative methods—Syrup of Figs and Extract of Senna, when a laxative is required, it is wholly free from all objectionable substances. To set its beneficial effects above the ordinary manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

A thoroughly convincing day concerning former transactions concerning the time they were vastly students at Albuquerque.

Rev. J. W. Hollister, pastor at the Methodist church, recently will take the first of the week for his off hours at Martin, Tex., where he will visit his father and mother.

Miss Gladys Rogers spent the week end with friends in Mortarts, attending the dance dogs in the evening and returning home Sunday.

STANLEY.

Miss Lizzie Ramonson, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. M. Reeves, left on the 13th for Colorado points from where she will return later to her home in town.

Joe Heiders made a business trip to Albuquerque the last of the week.

Mrs. W. W. Davis and daughter, Margaret, left for Albuquerque on the 13th instant.

Misses Besie and Mae Hill, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hill, returned on the 13th to their home in Beaufort, N. C.

J. C. Robinson of Pennsylvania, who has been visiting the family of J. M. Reeves, left last week for points in Colorado.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held Monday at the parsonage of the Methodist church with a large attendance of members.

The organization has been planning a public library and reading room combined and the following committee was appointed to perfect the plans: Miss Mary Knight, Mrs. Ella Johnson and Mrs. H. Moore. A committee was also appointed to arrange for a reception Friday evening for the faculty of the Corrao courts normal and teachers attending, of whom there are nearly 100 enrolled now. After the business meeting closed the motion for adjournment was made and carried.

WILARD.

Dr. and Mrs. John McCowan will leave in a day or so for San Francisco, Cal., where they expect to make their home.

Mrs. Rhoda Evans, accompanied by her friend, Mrs. Oliver, were here from Mattocks, spending the day with friends Thursday.

Many children between the ages of 4 and 5 years have been quite ill this week. Among the youthful sufferers were noted Catherine Chinnard, Elizabeth Morris, Frankie Jennings and Ernest Burns.

Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Cheaney had a few friends in Wednesday for an informal housewarming. The Cheaners have recently built a bungalow on their farm about three miles north of town. The guests included Morris and Madeline Dunaway, Banton, Ill.; Misses Locke and Brinkley and Mr. Ernest Brinkley.

Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Kosner and their little daughter Maxine are now occupying a residence in town, having moved in from their country home during the time that the doctor will have the management of the Willard Drug company.

Mrs. Mary Ellison left Thursday morning for her home at Lakewood, Texas, after an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. A. L. Morris.

Misses Margaret and Josephine Cunningham were here from Santa Fe Tuesday, the guests of their friend, Miss Florence Meeks. The girls spent the day in Harvey Canyon.

Mrs. J. P. Danley entertained yesterday Tuesday afternoon for her house guests, Mrs. Murry, Mrs. Lovell and Mrs. Ramsey. Those present were Mrs. W. M. McCoy, Mrs. M. H. Fuller, Mrs. C. L. Burt, Mrs. G. T. Rhodes, Mrs. J. W. Corbett, Mrs. Fred L. Hill, Mrs. F. R. Triffle, Mrs. A. E. Black, Mrs. J. F. Mitchell, Mrs. Isaac Fulton and Mrs. H. K. Hedding.

In the evening Mrs. Danley entertained informally at bridge for Mrs. Ratnes.

Miss Mabel Plant of Albuquerque is a late arrival and will remain in Mortarts during the session of Chautauqua.

Wise directed, will cause her to give to her little ones only the most wholesome and beautiful sounds, and only when actually needed, and the well-informed mother uses only the pleasant and gentle narrative methods—Syrup of Figs and Extract of Senna, when a laxative is required, it is wholly free from all objectionable substances. To set its beneficial effects above the ordinary manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

Miss Phoebe Price returned from Albuquerque Monday, where she spent the weekend. Messrs. W. H. Thompson and William Williams and Harry Wilson were visitors in Mortarts Saloon.

Gordon ghost returned from Albuquerque the first of the week, where he has been employed.

John Evans made a business trip to Albuquerque the last of the week.

Among the Boston guests who attended the ice cream supper at Venus Saturday night were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Collins, Fred Calkins, Leonidas Ash, and Misses Bertha Calkins and Georgia and Rebecca and White King.

Evans and his old, affectionate friends have never been so much enjoyed the young people played various games. A collection was taken up to get a new supply of song books for the Sunday school.

Lulu Ruth King returned from Mortarts Wednesday, where she will visit her father and mother.

Miss Gladys Rogers spent the week end with friends in Mortarts, attending the dance dogs in the evening and returning home Sunday.

Joe Heiders made a business trip to Albuquerque the last of the week.

Mrs. W. W. Davis and daughter, Margaret, left for Albuquerque on the 13th instant.

Misses Besie and Mae Hill, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hill, returned on the 13th to their home in Beaufort, N. C.

J. C. Robinson of Pennsylvania, who has been visiting the family of J. M. Reeves, left last week for points in Colorado.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a court holds jurisdiction over degrees after having been granted, and raises a question as to the right of the court to again take up a case where the decree has been issued to quiet title to a piece of property.

The case of Joseph Brown Oliver and Mildred Oliver vs. Jose Enriquez involves 172 1/2 acres of land in the Rio Grande colony grant, this case in itself presents a question of law that is of vital importance to all land owners in the territory as it raises a question as to the length of time a